2. Information We Collect

We may collect account information (name, email, encrypted password, optional profile picture), preferences (dietary requirements, allergies, favourite cuisines, supermarkets), usage data (recipes viewed, searches, saved recipes, app interactions, device and app information), communications you send us, and content you upload such as reviews, ratings and recipes.

3. How We Use Your Information

To provide and improve MealFind, personalise recommendations, save preferences, provide support, maintain security, prevent fraud, analyse performance, develop new features and send service communications. Marketing emails are sent only where permitted by law and you can unsubscribe at any time.

4. Legal Basis

We process data to perform our contract with you, comply with legal obligations, pursue legitimate interests such as improving and securing MealFind, and where required, based on your consent (for example certain cookies or marketing).

5. AI Features

MealFind may use AI to answer recipe questions, recommend recipes, suggest substitutions and improve search. AI responses may be inaccurate and are provided for general information only, not medical or nutritional advice.

6. Prices and Nutrition

Recipe costs, supermarket prices and nutritional values are estimates and may differ due to retailer pricing, promotions, availability and other factors. Please verify information before making purchasing or dietary decisions.

7. Sharing

We do not sell your personal information. We may share data with trusted providers such as cloud hosting, authentication, analytics, email and customer support providers, or where required by law.

8. International Transfers

Where information is transferred outside the UK, we use appropriate safeguards where legally required.

9. Security

We use appropriate technical and organisational measures including encryption where appropriate, access controls and monitoring. No system is completely secure.

10. Retention

We retain information only as long as necessary. When you delete your account we will delete or anonymise your personal information within a reasonable period unless we are legally required to retain it.

11. Your Rights

You may request access, correction, deletion, restriction, objection, data portability or withdrawal of consent where applicable. UK users may also complain to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) if they believe their data protection rights have been infringed.
